

SUMMARY

We have studied the influence of some factors of soil formation (topography and vegetation) on the morphology and properties of soils developed on calcareous rocks in the area of Jabalcuz (Jaen).

We have pointed out as changes in vegetation produce modifications at the higher categories of the soils (level Orders) while topography changes only introduce modifications at suborder levels in these soils.